Irving Torrey Dead

Irving Torrey, of Swan's Island former yacht captain for Richard Whitney, erstwhile stock exchange president, now in prison, died Friday in St. Luke's hospital New Bedford, Mass. Skipper of the fishing boat "Anastasia" Mr. Torrey spent his summers in Maine while in Whitney's employ. A daughter, Mrs. Mabel T. Ulmer, requested the body be sent to Swan's Island for burial.

Lake City Inn

"Boze" Recalls Visit To It and How He Narrowly Escaped Arrest

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

In regard to Lake City Inn at Mungitcook Lake, I find an entry in Dad's diary for Aug. 17, 1894 which reads: "A.B.C. and wife went to Camden this morning (horse and buggy days)." Camden was a day's journey at that time.

George Fountain of Turkey, a second cousin of mine, was proprietor and my recollection is that it was opened that summer. As I recall, one came down a long hill from Camden and then turned left, the road to Hope I believe, and in a short drive reached the Inn. I had a room overlooking the lake and mountain and saw, a la Kate Smith, "the moon come over the mountain."

The reason for remembering the visit so well is that I came the nearest to getting arrested I ever did in my young life. After supper, mine host George said, "I have a boat down on the lake and if you would like to take your wife out for a row, go down and get it." It was rather foggy, but we found the boat and started across the lake.

Soon we heard a female voice, "Yo hoo! What's the name of your boat?"

"I don't know," I replied.

"Will you please look and tell me?" she shouted.

When I called back the name, the voice said, "Will you please row back to the shore?"

This I did and soon I heard a male voice say, "I'll go down to Camden and have him arrested for stealing my boat!"

The feminine voice reproached him with, "Now father, it is only a mistake. The gentleman was not stealing your boat."

The young lady bore the same name as the Puritan maiden who said to John, "Speak up John, or forever hold your peace." So John spoke up and she took his name.

They had been at the Inn but George would not tell the names of the guests who went out on the lake in the boat.

Presented Medals, Enjoyed Fine Play and Elected Officers

The Rockland Parent-Teacher Association closed its sixteenth year of existence last night with a session outstandingly successful. The High School auditorium was filled as Albert McCarty concluded his second year in the presidency. The annual reports showed a most successful year from membership and financial angles with a greater amount of milk distributed to undernourished children than ever before. In connection with the phenomenal membership, largest in Maine, Mrs. Donald Kelsey was presented with a medal by the State Association, she being membership chairman.

The new president is Raphael S. Sherman, Mrs. P. P. Bicknell is vice president; Mrs. Pierre Haverer secretary and Mrs. Donald L. Kelsey, treasurer. President McCarty was given an ovation as he adjourned the final meeting.

The entertainment feature was a gem, presented by the Camden street pupils under direction of the teachers, Misses Madlene Rogers and Julia Littlefield. Under title of "Springs Awakening" the youngsters presented a beautifully executed story play with the charming costumes the handiwork of Miss Rogers. The accompanist was Mrs. Esther Rogers.

A highly impressive ceremony was the presentation of the Good Citizenship Awards by the Sons and the Daughters of the American Revolution. The members of the 7th and 8th grades came in for the services and roundly applauded the winners. Principal Blaisdell explained that the selection of five boys and five girls was made by the 8th grade members, then the teachers made the final elimination.

Mrs. Anne Snow, representing the D.A.R. spoke impressively in presenting the medal to Miss Dorothy Peterson saying the choice meant honor, service, courage and leadership. Col. E. K. Gould in his time honored role of representative of the "Sons" spoke from a full heart of the distinction such a choice implied and told interestingly of instances of his own boyhood when, frightened but willing, he made his first speech for the Sons of the American Revolution and was commended by Hannibal Hamlin. To John Storor he presented the medal as the highest honor his mates could confer.

Music was furnished by the amazingly proficient Junior High School orchestra, many of the musicians being barely visible to the naked eye behind their horns and other instruments. Miss Beth Hagar directed as she did the two splendid numbers presented by the Junior High School Girls' Glee Club. Mr. McCarty covered himself with glory and confusion by substituting at the last minute as accompanist in a difficult selection sung by the Glee Club.

W. W. Morse's Letter

Published In Two Insurance Magazines — Written In South America

The current issue of the Federal Record, published by the Federal Life and Casualty Company, contains the following letter from its vice president, Walter W. Morse.

Walter has several hobbies, and roving is one of them formerly of Rockland, written in South America during his recent trip to that country. The letter follows:

Cartagena, Colombia
South America

Being, as many of you know, an advocate of vacations for my associates and myself, and convinced that even a day out for golf, a ball game or fishing enables one to take up his duties with renewed interest, a vacation, as I see it, even though short, is a good investment. On a brief West Indies-South American cruise, accompanied by Mrs. Morse, my friend Judge Preti and Mrs. Preti, our itinerary includes Havana, Kingston, Cartagena, Colon and Panama City.

These lines are being penned at old Cartagena, one of the oldest cities on the Western Hemisphere. In this old Spanish city there is, as in other places visited, very much of interest and beauty. It is, however, lamentable that one finds the masses living in the most primitive fashion, having only bare creature needs with little to encourage initiative, burdened with taxation and intolerance, coming down through the years as the result of centralized government. Here one sees at first hand the example and result of past abuses in this direction.

Visiting countries with various forms of government gives one, I believe, a broader vision and a realization that too much government in business is anything but beneficial to the citizens of any country. To a citizen of the United States it emphasizes the advantages and especially the opportunity of all here to progress through their own efforts, when liberty and the pursuit of happiness mean tolerance and the right of each state and community to make laws which may be locally adapted to bring the most good to the greatest number.

Seeing these countries stimulates a greater respect for the founders of our own nation, the heritage of our people, the best housed, best fed, best clothed, best educated, most tolerant, most philanthropic and the most peace-loving nation on earth. Men engaged in the business of insurance, where a man's reward is commensurate to services rendered, should realize this is a most propitious time for business expansion and better service. Is it not timely wisdom for each of us, in these troublous days, to teach our children and to ourselves imbibe a greater respect for our constitution—the greatest government yet established by man and to take closer interest in the legislation of the greatest country on earth—your country and mine.

The above letter was republished in the Mutual Underwriter, a very widely circulated insurance magazine.

The answer to Question No. 28 will appear in Thursday's issue.

FERNALD GOES ON RECORD

Knox Pomona Grange met with Hope Grange Saturday with approximately 125 present. After the regular routine of business, and degree work, and partaking of a bountiful dinner, the lecturer presented a very interesting program in open session.

Senator Roy L. Fernald was the guest speaker and in his address he handled the present State government "without gloves." He charged that the government was permeated with thievery. After the address an open forum was held which caused some quite caustic exchange of remarks.

However, when asked the direct question "Do you consider that a defeated candidate in a primary election should support the nominee of that election?" the Senator replied "I absolutely do."

Fifteen Divorces

Were Granted At the May Term of Court — Short But Busy Session

The last jury trial was the case of the State vs. Benjamin Monroe of Camden for operating an automobile under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Monroe was arrested by Sgt. Wibe of the State Highway Police on the night of April 30, 1938, after his car had been in collision with a car owned by W. E. Blake of South Union. The respondent testified that he had not had any intoxicating liquor to drink that day or that night, and his witnesses testified to that effect. The case was submitted to a drawn jury, Albert L. Briggs foreman, on Saturday morning, and the jury reported a verdict of "not guilty." Charles A. Perry represented the respondent.

Testimony was taken out in the case of the City of Rockland vs. the Inhabitants of the Town of Stonington Saturday. This is a matter involving pauper supplies furnished by the City of Rockland to a family supposed to have a pauper settlement in the town of Stonington. This case will be heard further by Judge Murray at a later date. Charles T. Smalley, City Solicitor, appeared for the plaintiff and Percy T. Clarke of Ellsworth appeared for the defendant.

There were five jury trials this term—two cases being taken from the jury and settled. Eighty-seven cases were disposed of. Total costs for the term amounted to $1011.97, of which amount $394.48 was paid to jurors and $273.70 for criminal cases.

The thorough preparation of the Hall murder case resulted in the saving to the county of Knox of over $1000. Sheriff C. Earl Ludwick and County Attorney Jerome C. Burrows started immediately after the slaying and worked until the early hours of the morning gathering evidence, interviewing witnesses and obtaining the written confession of the respondent. Had this not been done a trial would have been held at the May term of court necessitating the calling of many jurors and witnesses at a huge cost. The investigation by the above officers cost less than thirty dollars and was so complete that a plea of guilty was inevitable.

The decree of the Judge of Probate allowing the will of Dr. Albert P. Heald, late of Thomaston, was approved by Justice Murray and is returned to Probate Court for future administration. The will was drawn ten years ago by Frank H. Ingraham, two codicils being added. Mr. Ingraham and Charles T. Smalley appeared for the proponents and Alan L. Bird for the remonstrants.

Fifteen divorces were granted. The list follows:
Ethel M. Griffin of Warren from Ray M. Griffin of West Palm Beach, Florida, for desertion. Custody of Martha E. and Alice M., minor children granted to Ethel M. Griffin until further order of court. Burrows for libellant.
Mae S. Watson of Rockland from Leal J. Watson of Augusta, for desertion. Libellant is granted permission to resume her maiden name, Mae S. Grotton. Burrows for libellant.

Is State Chairman

Dept. Com. Hector G. Staples Working For National Air Mail Week

The week of May 15-21 has been designated as National Air Mail Week.

To make celebrations fitting and successful, the Post Office Department is enlisting the services of citizens of all classes, professions, business, civic, fraternal, and veterans' organizations, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, Governors of the States have been asked to serve as Honorary Chairmen, Gov. Barrows being honorary chairman for Maine.

Mrs. Helen C. Donahue, postmaster at Portland, who is State Chairman of National Air Mail Week in Maine, has appointed Hector G. Staples, Department Commander of the American Legion, chairman of the Civic, Fraternal and Veterans' Organizations Committee for the State.

The following State organizations have already signified their co-operation in promoting National Air Mail Week, and are represented as follows:

Llewellyn C. Fortier, Augusta, Department Membership Chairman, American Legion.
Mrs. Adelaide C. Owen, Milo, Department President American Legion Auxiliary.
Oliver Hamlin, Rockland, Department Commander Veterans of Foreign Wars.

John P. Carey, Bath, President, Maine Elks Association.

Herbert L. Patrick, Portland, Scout Executive Boy Scouts, Pine Tree Council.

Mrs. John I. B. Sawyer, Portland, Director Girl Scouts, Cumberland County Council.

Mrs. Maude Clark Gay, Waldoboro, President Women's Clubs, Maine Federation.

William M. Oshells, Kezar Falls, Lt. Governor Kiwanis International.
Dr. Charles E. H. Beane, Hallowell Grand Chancellor Knights of Pythias.

Rockland won its golf match with Bath High School yesterday at Knox Country Club, with these results: In the first foursome, Ted Benner of Rockland defeated Gallagher of Bath, one up; Don Marriener of Rockland defeated Perry of Bath, 3 and 2, ball won by Rockland, 3 and 1. In the second foursome, Dick Haverer of Rockland defeated McPadden of Bath, 5 and 3; Kelsey Benner of Rockland defeated Henderson of Bath, 7 and 5, ball won by Rockland, 4 and 3.

The presence in the city yesterday of a Prince Edward Island car was reported by several persons, first among them being Henry Gardner.

In a neighboring town is a house of learning which was known years ago as the Pint Basin schoolhouse. How many readers of this column can name the location?

Bruno Mazzeo, local marathon runner, does considerable of his work on a banana diet. At four pounds the other day at a single sitting.

Editor Fuller likes to tell the story of the dissipated English newspaper man who could be coaxed from his potatoes long enough to write the leading editorial. One night he was so far gone that he refused to do it. As a compromise, however, he called for the London Times and from its editorial page clipped the day's leader. Pasting it on a sheet of paper he wrote as a caption: "What does the Times mean by this?" And in this form it appeared in the paper next morning.

"The Black Cat"

By The Roving Reporter

I met John J. Wardwell on the street yesterday and a casual question drew out the fact that he will be 87 years old the last day of this month. Remarkably well preserved is this famous designer and builder of ships, and he takes the same live interest in current affairs that he did a quarter century ago. The highly interesting story of his career appeared in this paper some years ago, and it is doubtful if there is another man now living who can equal his record of contributions to the coasting fleet. One year only two vessels were built on what Mr. Wardwell calls "the river" (including Rockland) and he designed both of them. I am one of many hundreds of friends who wish for "Johnny" Wardwell a happy birthday May 31, and I hope they will voice their congratulations on that day.

Black flies are patrolling the trout streams of Knox County and they bring word that many regiments of mosquitoes are mobilizing in the marsh lands. Those citizens who are immune from the pests will not be seriously perturbed by this news, but those who are not will have to do a little extra scratching to make a living.

Maynard Gardner, the Port Clyde stage driver won a hat as the result of a recent bet, and it was presented to him with due formality by the titled loser at the Coffee Club yesterday. There are several reasons why Maynard will probably not wear it, but those who will have to learn from Maynard himself.

A facetious friend of The Black Cat column has prepared a long list of "Places I Miss" but strict censorship prevents their publication in this newspaper.

Hitler and Mussolini have had their conference and parted with an agreement not to encroach on each other's territorial preserves. But what do you suppose they agreed to do about the rest of us?

Mrs. John H. Andrews of Rockport writes:

"E. H. Philbrick would have come down from the hood of his car if that rattlesnake had been like the one my cousin knew about when he was in Florida. As he tells it to me, this rattler was a tame one that slept on his owner's bed nights. One night a burglar entered the room and the disturbance aroused the snake before it did its owner. The snake quietly curled himself around the burglar and then around the bed post, then rattled his tail out of the window for a policeman."

A. C. Jones adds Washington to the list of out of State cars seen in Rockland this season. Next!

In a town not far from Rockland, but outside of Knox County, a wealthy woman is said to have deposited $65 in a slot machine before dumping it. The resulting armful of coins was distributed among the spectators. The woman played for the sake of the sport.

The presence in the city yesterday of a Prince Edward Island car was reported by several persons, first among them being Henry Gardner.

Lord, what wilt thou have me to do? Acts 9: 6.

Is Rather Blunt

But Editor DeVoto Says
Some Things That Maine
Should Profit By

The following paragraph is quoted from an editorial by Bernard DeVoto which was printed in the Sept. 25, 1937, issue of the Saturday Review of Literature:

"Maybe the WPA writers got round to describing U. S. 1 in Maine. Maybe they said that it looks like a tornado strewing a sizeable junk yard over Coney Island on the Fourth of July. That would be emphasis by understatement, and if the Chamber of Commerce was annoyed, let it start cleaning up Vacationland. For 50 miles north of the New Hampshire line, and in long stretches beyond U. S. 1, which the road signs call 'New England Beautiful,' badly needs a slum-clearance project, though the tourist is supposed to have fun there. It looks pinchbeck, gaudy, unsanitary, scrofulous, pock-marked. It's a vomitory. There's nothing soft about the State of Mainers; if the tourist is to enjoy his stay, he's got to be able to take it. Weekending among Fried Clam signs and old tin cans has never been our idea of a holiday. If the Maine Chamber of Commerce sees eye to eye with us, it should shut up when an honest writer says so in print and expend its energy raking up the cans."

Some Old Papers

Which Tell of Rockland
Events—A City Election
—A Threatened War

Arthur Dennison of South Thomaston hands us a copy of the Rockland Opinion of March 6, 1896, containing among other things a report of the city election in which John Lovejoy, Rep., had 579 votes, Samuel A. Keyes, Dem. 165 and A. L. Carleton, Socialist-Labor, 14. The Opinion, staunchly Democratic, said that Lovejoy's victory was "swelled by the ballots of most of the floaters and bums who will do most anything for a drink."

Among the local items were these: Mrs. Anne Lovejoy was about to retire from the firm of Crockett & Lovejoy.

E. K. Gould was advocating a monument for Major General Hiram G. Berry on the spot at Chancelorsville where he fell.

Maxine Elliott was a favorite on the New York stage.

John F. Singhi was a candidate for city marshal.

Capt. William P. Hurley had been appointed a member of the Democratic Congressional Committee.

Professional men advertising in the newspaper at that time were Dr. F. B. Adams, Dr. M. P. Judkins, Dr. J. C. Hill, Dr. A. Woodside, Dr. A. M. Austin, Dr. T. E. Tibbets, Dr. A. W. Taylor, Dr. W. V. Hanscom, and Beaton & Ulmer, Mervyn Ap Rice, W. H. Fogler, E. C. Payson, R. I. Thompson and Mortland & Johnson, attorneys.

Mr. Dennison also showed a copy of the Rockland Daily Star of March 26, 1898, which showed that the Spanish War cloud was deepening.

EDUCATIONAL CLUB EPIC

History, Purpose and Deeds of Woman's Society Set in Rhyme
by Loyal Member

At the afternoon session of the Woman's Educational Club held Friday at the Grand Army hall (further mention of which appears in another column) a paper was given by Mrs. Nettie Stewart on "Maud Ballington Booth," and by Mrs. Heath on "John Hancock."

Mrs. Zaida Winslow read an article on "Molly Pitcher" written by Miss Marguerite Gould. Discussions on matters of historical significance and questions on timely topics interspersed the program numbers, the central attraction of which was Rev. Dr. John Smith Lowe's talk on "Our Inheritance and Our Hope."

One of the club poets, Miss Elizabeth O. Marsh, composed a history of the organization in rhyme, a section of which is here published:

This club for eighteen years
Has met together
Summer and winter
In all kinds of weather—
In storm and sunshine,
In cold and heat;
We have always arrived
With a quorum complete.
Now this large club
Here assembled tonight
Has faith in its mission
And all strive to do right
Thus, full of courage,
We hope to long stand
For truth, right and justice
Throughout our broad land.

The Rockland Loan & Building Association has nearly completed plans for its 50th anniversary which will take the form of an open house at the School street home of that organization in the afternoon and a banquet at The Thorndike Hotel in the evening.

NEW YORK WORLD'S FAIR GOOD WILL
COURIER RECEIVES WARM WELCOME HERE

Delivering a special invitation to our Governor and to the people of our state to be present at the New York's big World's Fair party next year, the Fair's good will ambassador was warmly greeted by local citizens on his recent stopover in our city. The spectacular World's Fair Motorcade of 49 of these cars was dispatched from New York to every state in the union and to the nation's capital. In addition to its mission of good will, the Motorcade is conducting a nationwide safe driving demonstration in cooperation with the A.A.A. To insure the success of this important phase of the tour, the couriers in charge were selected from the highly trained field engineering organization maintained by the makers of U. S. Tires, and all cars specially equipped with U. S. Royal Master Safety Tires.

Ten million dollars in imperative improvements, sewers, gas mains, water lines, electrical conduits and the like, have all but disappeared in their proper places below ground. Up in steel and framing are: the Hall of Communications and the Business Administration, the Mines and Metallurgy, the Consumers, the Medicine and Health, the Shelter, two Food and the Textile Buildings... the $740,000 Administration Building has been occupied by a headquarters staff of 900 persons since mid-August, 1937. Under construction is a $2,000,000 electric power transmission system... The Fair has in process contracts, commitments and purchase orders totalling some $10,000,000, exclusive of City, State and Federal projects.

The $1,700,000 structures of the Theme Centre are going up... New York City has its $1,200,000 "Glass House" (permanent) almost completely enclosed and ready for interior installations... New York State has started building its $1,600,000 Marine Amphitheatre (permanent) with island stage... The Federal Government is just letting contract for construction of nine structures, including Federal Building, Hall of Nations and parade ground, which feature in a $3,000,000 official exhibit. Ground will be broken in the Federal Area on April 1... Landscaping operations, including the further planting of grown trees, will continue the program started in early 1937.

Thirty-two states and Puerto Rico have definitely acted to join the ranks of New York Fair exhibitors; others have participation legislation pending... The Fair directors expect a "solid front" in the magnificent, 11-acre Court of the State Buildings with its gardens, fountains and architecture interpreting the early-American influences, English, French and Spanish... Twenty states and Puerto Rico have already allocated funds for the 1939 fair... Missouri, Oregon and Florida are among the states that will erect their own exhibit buildings.

The Good Will Car which came to Rockland Saturday was in charge of Rudolf Ruy of Middletown, Conn., whose first duty was to call upon Mayor Edward R. Veazie, and receive the latter's official acknowledgement of the visit: Mr. Ruy is a graduate of Wesleyan University and an intimate friend of Prof. Wilbert Snow—"the best professor I ever studied under," he told The Courier-Gazette reporter.

The Juvenile Grange

Gets Foothold In Knox
With Pleasant Valley
and St. George Organized

One of the finest projects achieved by Pleasant Valley and St. George Granges was accomplished Friday night when Lloyd Crockett of North Haven, District Deputy, organized two juvenile Granges. The charter list of Pleasant Valley has 26 names and these officers were elected: Master, Franklin D. Call; overseer, Earle Bartlett; lecturer, Mary Farrand; steward, Elwyn Hickman; assistant steward, David Farrand; chaplain, Ruth Call; treasurer, Elinor Young; secretary, Barbara Young; gate keeper, George Stewart; Ceres, Doris Butler; Pomona, Rose Shadie; Flora, Barbara Benner; lady assistant steward, Barbara Bartlett.

The other charter members are: Norene Bartlett, Allison Bartlett, Avis Williamson, William Butler, Nancy Hamlin, Jack Passon, Albert, Conrad and Louise Winchenbaugh, Dorothy Benner, Nancy Webber, Edwin Bowden, and Fulton Hickman. Mrs. Etta Anderson is the matron, with Mrs. Evelyn Bartlett, assistant.

The matron for St. George is Mrs. Marion Barnes, with Louise Robinson as assistant. A joint installation is planned for May 20, Friday evening at 8 o'clock, open to the public at Pleasant Valley Grange hall. State Master and Mrs. Ardine Richardson are expected. Mrs. Richardson is Supt. of Maine Juvenile Granges.

The purpose of the juvenile Grange is based upon the principles of the subordinate Grange, representing the home and all that it stands for, to teach and develop in the child the beauty of agriculture, nature, club work, etc. The degree work and the routine is practically the same as the Grange, but of shorter duration.

Children between the ages of 5 and 14, whose parents are eligible to become members of the Grange, may join. The application fee is 15 cents and dues are 20 cents a year. After the child reaches 14 he graduates into the subordinate Grange. Parents may attend but have no voice while the meeting is in progress. The fee is 25 cents to become an honorary senior member.

The Fists Will Fly

When Haywood Storey
Meets Worcester Man—
Fight Bill With a Punch

Haywood Storey, brunette boxer, who is to appear in the main bout at the Spanish Villa tomorrow night, claims Detroit as his home port, and he can turn out victories faster than Ford can turn out motor cars. His latest achievement was a newspaper decision over Roy McIntire, the Canadian middleweight champion. From the Waterville Sentinel's story of the fight the following is quoted:

"The largest crowd ever to witness a boxing match crowded into the St. John Forum to get a peek at the Waterville sensation pitted against the Canadian champion. While Storey failed to drop his foe in any round, he enjoyed a clear margin through each of the ten sessions. His greater experience served him in good stead as he 'rode' the punches of the champion, and was never in danger. Veteran ringside critics handed Storey eight of the ten rounds."

Storey's opposition tomorrow night will come from that smart Worcester boxer, Young Sharkey. He boxed Ponzi Cochran recently and the ringside fans did not have to be told how good he is.

Butch Wooster will swing back into the game, tackling K. O. Morgan, who displayed his wares against K. O. Bernier. These boys tip the scales at 180 pounds apiece, and the sparks fly when they make a motion.

Worcester registers again when Billy Adams meets Walter Reynolds of Camden. Game and clever, both lads.

And more Worcester still, when Herby Cormier of the Bay State city faces Slasher Porter the Lime City cyclone.

Speaking of cyclones! Keep your eye on George Boardman when he meets Terry York.

ber. The matron shoulders a great responsibility in the training of our future citizens, and parents are urged to co-operate in so great an institution as the Grange, and its juvenile organization.

Camden 16, Morse 13

The sluggers were out in full force at Camden Saturday afternoon, and they saw the home team put a trig in those fast moving Bath wheels. Johnson gave way to Fairbrother in the early half of the game, and the slugging practically stopped as far as Morse High was concerned. Nash was top notch with the willow lining out four nice singles.

Capacity Audiences Greeted Jimmie and Dick At Community Building

The salvage equipment fund for the Rockland Fire Department being raised by the Old Home Week Association, received a splendid boost Saturday when Jimmie and Dick played a return engagement before packed houses for two performances at Community Building.

The popular radio stars brought with them an added attraction in the small person of Claudette Fancher of Haverhill, Mass. Winners in the afternoon amateur contest were: Philip Wentworth of Hope, song; Nancy Carlson of Rockland, song; Barbara Newbert and Margaret Johnson of Rockland, acrobatic dance; and Paul Lawrence Simpson of Thomaston, song and guitar.

Alba Maddocks of Burkettsville, song and guitar tied with Fred Sistaire and Caroline Bodman of Rockland, roller skaters, for first place in the evening amateur contest. Ralph Stone and Gloria Studley of Rockland, singing and tap dance, were in third place, and other winners were: Woodrow Cushman and Robert Ames of South Cushing, two guitars, yodeling and songs; Isabelle Clark and Levi Hupper of Port City, guitar and harmonica; Jessie Olds and George Robshaw of Rockland, whip cracking act; and Arthur Sullivan of Rockland, song and dance. Harold Bates was accompanist for the several amateur acts.

"The Great Arico"

Scuttled Admiral Hobbs'
Ship In a Star Alley
Bowling Match

Once again the great Arico has held onto his title of Knox County champion. Friday night at the Star Alleys Mike scuttled the ship of Admiral Hobbs when he rolled the nice total of 1063 against Hobbs' 1021. Going into this last ten the champ was 15 pins down, so with this 42 pin victory he hangs onto the crown by 27 pins.

By the looks of the crowd John will have to build bleachers to hold the overflow, and a large crowd outside had to have special signals to keep them informed as to how the game was going.

This match proved a lot of things, one of which the followers of bowling were not sure of—champion Arico can take it and give it under fire. A steady stream of Mike's pals have been shouting how he was all done and what a broadside Admiral Hobbs was going to let loose. Well, Mike didn't give up the ship, as another admiral once said, and the totals prove the point.

Arico started off with a string of 112 against 97 for the Admiral, which erased last week's lead of 15 pins and squared the total to this point. Back on even terms once more, Mr. Arico proceeded to the attack and his first five strings were over the century mark, for a 539 to Hobbs' 497 which put him 42 pins up, in the match.

It really looked bad for the Admiral but he still had a few torpedoes left and he fired them in the sixth string for a 20 pin gain, and once more in the seventh string for 18 pins more. Mike's craft was gradually sinking and at this period of the battle, the score showed Arico leading by four little pins in the match, but 11 pins to the rear on the total.

Right here is where the crowd nearly went wild, as Arico let loose with his big guns and crashed out a string of 124, the highest of the night, and once more proved he has the range, on land or sea. The ninth saw Mike hitting 114 for a seven pin gain and the last was even, 96 apiece. Both men rolled 524 in their last five strings, so the match was won in Arico's first five by 42 pins, giving him the 20 string total by 27.

Hobbs rolled two matches good enough to beat the average bowler, but Mike is still carrying a four-leaf clover over that 78 string of the Admiral's last Friday. The champ was all smiles and received many handshakes at the finish and Hobbs also got a good hand all through the match. Hobbs has asked for a return match later on in the season.

REPLACE YOUR SMOOTH WORN TIRES AND BE SAFE

LAST year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 40,000 men, women and children and nearly a million and a quarter more were injured. More than 52,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to smooth, worn, unsafe tires. A recent survey discloses that 59 million tires now in use are, or will become, smooth this year. Do your part to make driving safer. Replace smooth tires on your car. Come in today and equip with Firestone Convoy Tires and save 25%.

FIRESTONE CAN GIVE YOU SUCH A HIGH QUALITY TIRE AT SUCH A NEW LOW PRICE

Because Firestone saves money by controlling and securing rubber and cotton at the source and by more efficient manufacturing and distribution. These savings make possible more extra values at low prices:

New High Quality—First choice rubber and selected cotton that conforms to Firestone's high standards and rigid specifications.

Long Mileage—Safe, silent tread design made of tough, slow wearing rubber that assures long mileage. Sturdy bars and rugged notches that give full protection against skidding.

Blowout Protection—Nine extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone Patented Gum-Dipping process which counteracts internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Puncture Protection—Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread that protects against punctures.

Come in today. Let us put a set of these large size, rugged, long wearing Firestone Convoy Tires on your car—remember, you save 25%.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

TRAVEL INTO FAIRYLAND

Have a heart-to-heart talk with yourself! Double exposure, accurately planned, will let you.

Do you remember the wonder tales you read when a child, the forbidden castles filled with ogres, the huge jinn of the Arabian Nights, the trolls that lived under bridges and the fairies that haunted mysterious woodlands?

You can use your camera to recreate those childhood memories. You can make giants walk through your pictures. You can hold yourself, or a tiny version of yourself, in the hollow of your own hand. You can pose in intimate conversation with the Irish "wee people," the elves and fairies and the cowering leprechaun.

It's not hard. The method is to use our old friend, the double exposure—two shots on the same film. All that is necessary is accurate posing and careful control of the light. A black background is necessary or you can pose your subject before the door of a dark room.

Note the picture above. Although it was made with a camera having a ground glass for focusing, which simplifies making such pictures, you can get the same effect with your own small camera. First, pose the subject fairly close to the camera, with his empty hand extended. Snap the picture and mark the position of the hand on the glass view finder, very carefully, with a tiny dot of ink.

Now, without winding the film, move the camera back several feet, so the subject appears small in the view finder. Let him stand, facing his former position, so that his feet appear right on the ink dot in the finder. Arrange the light so the feet are not too brightly illuminated. This will help eliminate evidence of slight errors in the position of the subject. Snap the shutter a second time and the final picture is made. When the picture is developed, presto!—there are the little man and the big one, facing each other on the same film.

You will probably make mistakes in placement on your first tries, because the view finder is small, but this is part of the fun of trying trick photography—and some of your errors may give a funnier picture than the one you carefully planned. It is well to remember that only the figures in these shots can be lighted—if surrounding objects show up, they will spoil the picture.

If your camera has an "open" direct view finder, without glass, it is best not to try this sort of work. If, however, you have a camera with ground glass back, you can place figures with greater accuracy.

With this technique, you can make a fairy dance on the table in front of you—the fairy being your small daughter in her ballet dress. If you want to make the little figures transparent, shorten exposure a little. You can, if you like, do costume work, illustrating the fairy tales you enjoyed as a child. Try Jack and the Beanstalk, with an intrepid small boy eluding the grasp of a fierce ogre. Or get an old hiking brogan and a copy of Mother Goose and picture the Old Lady Who Lived In A Shoe.

1937 SEES CHANGES IN MAP OF WORLD

Effected by Ballots, Edicts, Treaties and Armies.

Washington, D. C.—Outstanding changes registered during 1937 on the map of the world and in the relationships of nations, owing to ballots, edicts, treaties and force of arms, are outlined in a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"Rise of the first corporate type of state in the Western Hemisphere, by the edict of the president of Brazil; passing the large areas of China under control of the Japanese army; and the setting up of a new democratic form of government for India's 350 million inhabitants were the most far-reaching changes of the year," says the bulletin.

"In Spain the war between the insurgents and the government has continued through the year with a steady loss of ground by the government. Malaga in the southeast fell in April. In the northeast Bilbao fell in June, Santander in August, and Gijon (last of the government strongholds in the region) in October. As the end of year approached, the capital of Spain had been moved from Valencia to Barcelona, and headquarters of the insurgents, from Burgos to Salamanca. Considerably more than half of Spain was in the hands of the insurgents.

"Two kings were formally placed on their thrones during the year. In May, George VI was crowned and anointed as king of Great Britain and the Dominions, Emperor of India. In July, Farouk was 'invested' as king of Egypt but was not crowned.

"Plans for the division of Palestine into a Jewish state and an Arab state, with Great Britain retaining direct control of Jerusalem and other strategic places, were brought forward during the year by a British commission, and even received the approval of the League of Nations mandates commission. But the announcement of the scheme caused such an outburst of criticism and rioting in Palestine that further steps have been delayed.

New Irish Constitution.

"A new constitution, adopted for Ireland by a general vote of the citizens, July 1, created the 'Republic of Eire,' headed by a president elected for seven years. The constitution is concerned only with internal affairs.

"Final agreement on the boundary between Colombia and Panama, parts of which had been in dispute for more than 30 years, was reached by an exchange of notes between the two countries early in December.

"A pact was signed December 10 in San Jose, Costa Rica, by representatives of Nicaragua and Honduras pledging the two countries to settle peacefully the boundary dispute which threatened earlier in the year to lead to hostilities.

"Two changes occurred in the membership of the League of Nations. Paraguay withdrew February 24, after having given two years notice of her intention to do so. Egypt was admitted May 26. Italy gave notice December 11 of intention to withdraw. Withdrawal becomes complete two years after filing notice.

"The new constitution for Brazil, proclaimed by presidential edict November 10 (and subject to plebiscite later) strengthens the central government at the expense of the states. The president is to serve six years.

"Under the new constitution in India, which went into effect April 1, the eleven provinces and more than 600 native states send delegates to a congress or parliament of two houses which legislates on federal matters for all India.

Hostilities in China.

"The hostilities which have led to the occupation of hundreds of thousands of square miles of Chinese territory by Japan and the loss of scores of thousands of Chinese lives, began near Peiping, July 7, when shots were exchanged by Chinese and Japanese soldiers. Shanghai, 600 miles to the south, was attacked by Japanese forces August 13. Fighting has continued on both fronts, although war has never been declared.

"In the north, Japanese armies have conquered all of the provinces of Chahar, Suiyuan, and Hopei, and large parts of Shansi and Shantung. Farther south they have taken possession of China's metropolis, Shanghai, and its capital, Nanking, and a large area of the Yangtze valley between the two cities. As the year drew to a close Japanese forces were advancing farther up the Yangtze toward Hankow.

"On October 29, a new 'Inner Mongolian nation,' consisting of the former Chinese provinces of Suiyuan and Chahar, was set up under Japanese auspices. The new state is headed by Prince Teh, Mongol chieftain, under protection of the Japanese army.

"Organization of a 'provisional government of all China' was announced under Japanese auspices in Peiping December 14. Executive, legislative and judicial councils composed of Chinese members were set up and the former Chinese flag of five colored bars was raised."

SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING JOIN TO DEFEAT RURAL LIFE ENEMIES—ROAD MUD AND DUST

Left—Science has proved that mixing the proper proportions of gravel, clay and moisture can convert this typical New England mud "road" into one that is as dustless in August as it is mudless in April.

Right—The proof. Here is another section of the same New Hampshire road pictured in Cheshire County on the same day. Science's new, inexpensive formula did it.

Once a road that bogged farm vehicles in mire or powdered them with dust, this splendid road resulted from the proper admixture of gravel, clay and calcium chloride to give a "stabilized" turnpike of the type recommended by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads for low-cost, all-season purpose.

SCIENCE and engineering have effectively combined forces to fight those twin evils of New England rural life—road dust and mud. Making use of just such soil materials as can be found in almost any county, the United States Bureau of Public Roads has developed formulas for building low-cost, all-season roads that from now on likely will get a bigger share of federal construction funds if the clamor for better secondary highways is any indication of future trend.

The Bureau has found that tiny drops of moisture form the key for locking soil particles together. In road making, definite proportions of gravel, sand, silt and very little clay, plus some moisture tend to bring about what is called a "stabilized" condition which results in a road tread that is quite hard and, with proper maintenance, is as dustless in August as it is mudless in April. Traffic of the kind usually found on "farm-to-market" roads actually operates to make a better road instead of breaking it up. This is because the stabilized road materials are compacted even more by the rolling weights above. How to provide and maintain the necessary moisture during dry months was the problem. Then chemistry stepped in with a substance—calcium chloride—that, when spread on the road, absorbs moisture directly from the atmosphere to keep the road surface damp.

Experimenting independently to find a type of road that would cost little, yet provide a good surface for the greatest number of people the year-round, the highway departments of several New England communities developed dustless, mudless roads of the stabilized kind. Photographed above are two sections of the same New Hampshire road taken on the same day last spring. But one section had been stabilized. It happened that only clay and calcium chloride were needed, and the improvement was made at a cost of only $300 a mile. Many rural roads would require no more to bring them to a state of year-round usefulness. In the bottom photo is a fully stabilized, fairly heavy traffic road, well drained and having a thick wearing mat of properly proportioned gravel, sand, silt, chemical and a little binder clay. Such a road costs from $1,000 to $2,500 a mile as compared to $7,000 to $20,000 a mile for heavy-travel pavements.

Highway departments have found that where funds are limited, stabilization may be accomplished in "stages" over several seasons. Here the road surface is "consolidated" by adding right amounts of coarse material with clay and chemical to give a hard tread. Next year the process is repeated to give a thicker surface, both mudless and dustless.

Where funds are extremely limited, surface consolidation can be started and dust eliminated by spreading calcium chloride alone, at a cost of from $150 to $300 a mile. As more funds become available, the improvement can be carried further on a "pay-as-you-go" plan, to eventually arrive at a fully stabilized, all-weather road.

Buick Fleet Starts World's Fair Tour

THE HIGHWAYS of the nation will be travelled by a fleet of twenty-five unique new Buicks early in May, when couriers of the New York 1939 World's Fair scatter to the four corners of the country with good will messages to the President of the United States and State Governors from Grover Whalen, president of the Fair, and Herbert Lehman, Governor of New York. Photo shows Mr. Whalen touring over a World's Fair "Key" to a Buick courier for presentation to the State Governors. The journey of the good will couriers is the final act of the colorful World's Fair preview in New York, April 30.

New Skyline Trail Is Thriller

HORSES have no sense of height. And that is just as well, for the new skyline trail which has been laid out in Jasper National Park, in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, lies for three miles on the top-most edge of a ridge more than 8500 feet high. It is a mile down to the valley floor from the top of the ridge and the shale slopes shoot downward from both sides of the trail at an angle of 45 degrees. On a clear day it is possible to see more than 100 miles from this spectacular trail, even down into the Columbia Icefield region, the largest glacial area south of the Arctic in North America. The illustration shows two views of the new trail.

Industry's No. 1 Job

Paul Willard Garrett

Good public relations—relations with the public—must start at home, must work from the inside out, Paul W. Garrett, General Motors' Director of Public Relations, declared in an address at the White Sulphur Springs convention of the American Association of Advertising Agencies. Public relations, he said, is a fundamental attitude of mind, a philosophy of management which places the broad interest of the consumer first in every decision affecting the operation of business. If American industry, he added, by constantly placing within the consumer's reach a better way of living, has given America the highest standard of living in the history of mankind, why should it hesitate to tell its story?

WORLD FAMOUS IS THE MALLARD DUCK

By "Ding" Darling
The ancestors of our domestic duck—

The wild duck of countries around the world, from Japan to France, from Mexico to Siberia, from Panama to Holland, the mallard.

Of the marsh ducks, the dippers and dabblers that dive but seldom, and feed in the shallows of ponds, lakes and marshes, the mallard and its cousin the black duck, are by far the most conspicuous.

The original breeding range of the mallard included practically every state in the Union. By stream and lake, in innumerable little pond holes—everywhere there was water and sedge, the "green head" drake and modest brown hen reared their broods.

The frenzy for clearing the last square rod of wild land, for ditching, draining and cultivating, drove the mallard from much of its old resting territory and yet the mallard remains the first known and most prolific species of our American waterfowl. Probably more mallard are hatched in this country than any other species of wild duck.

The one wild duck that quacks is the mallard, its voice being the same as that of the domestic variety. In fact, wild mallard so readily mingle with barnyard stock and adapt themselves to domestication that it has been difficult to keep pure-bred wild stock for experimental purposes and re-stocking experiments.

The hosts of mallard pouring up and down the Mississippi valley have, in former years, been too vast for any reasonable estimate to be made of their numbers. But civilization, with its twin menaces of drainage and drouth, pasturing cattle on the remaining grassy marshes and the heavy slaughter in years when there was no closed season or bag limit has taken its toll of even this most common species.

Now they're on the upgrade and just so long as we allow ourselves to kill less than we hatch and rear each year they may be expected to increase. The length of season and size of bag limit depends altogether on how rapidly we restore the population to adequate numbers by intelligent management.

THANKS FOR BILLION DOLLARS!

Speeding 3,000 miles through the clouds from the orange groves of the West, Patricia Ellis, youthful screen star, brought to President Franklin D. Roosevelt a baby navel orange tree, the direct descendant of the parent tree sent to California 65 years ago by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Thus did 15,000 California citrus growers symbolically repay the U. S. Government a billion dollar debt in one of the most unique events growing out of the strangest story of plant propagation in the history of horticultural science.

At the White House, in behalf of the President, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt received the tree and a box of navel oranges from the original 65 year old tree.

Since the propagation of this seedless variety, more than nine million navel orange trees have sprung into abundant growth in California's sun-kissed groves and the original importation has been characterized by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as "the most valuable fruit introduction yet made."

Huge Cast in Follies
The producers of the 1938 Follies, a snappy song and dance revue, to be presented, May 19 granted a brief interview to the reporter today. Miss Doris Heald and Miss June Cote announce that the revue will be in three scenes. The dialogue has been written by Miss Norma Whyte—a member of the senior class. Miss Whyte will appear in the cast as one of the principals.

Others having speaking parts are Richard Blackington, ace comedian and master of swing and rhythm, Frankie Pellerin, a popular junior, Mark Ingraham, who made an outstanding hit in this year's senior play. Another leading character is Austin Rankin. The feminine lead will be played by that charming bit of personality—Shirley Bracey.

These people will be supported by a large cast of 50 who will sing, play and dance. The complete cast will be announced next week. Much new talent is being discovered and added daily.

Tickets are now on sale. These will be exchanged May 16 at the Box-office for reserved seats. The proceeds will benefit the Athletic Association and will defray the expenses of the annual educational trip to Quebec—taken each year by members of the Senior French Class.

Eleven members of Pine Cone Troop went to Lewiston Saturday for the Girl Scouts' May Day party in the Armory. Harriet Tillson was leader, for their lieutenant, Miss Jane Miller, was not able to go with them as planned. Jean Crie was color-bearer and Phyllis Hall color-guard, and the others were Ruth Butler, Marie Clark, Virginia Roes, Barbara Sullivan, Mary Pion, Priscilla Hastings, Audrey Simmons and Florine Burnham. About 40 troops were represented, some of whom gave folk dances, and one presented a play on the life of Juliet Lowe, the founder of Girl Scouting in this country. Games and Scout songs added to the day's enjoyment.

Rev. and Mrs. H. F. Leach go to Bangor today to attend the State Conference of the Congregational-Christian Church, and expect to return Thursday.

Three Wise Fools

Community Guild Scored Another Success With Last Night's Play

Pursued by an ill fate from the outset, "The Three Wise Fools" latest opus of Community Theatre Guild, endured dismay at two postponements but pushed doggedly on to production and last night faced the opening footlights at the Universalist vestry, under auspices of the Woman's Association. Revised, recast and revamped from a dozen angles, the work necessarily suffered from cast surgery; yet ample substance remained for appreciative relish by an indulgent audience.

Frank M. Tibbetts, to whom was assigned a major role, was forced to relinquish it owing to illness. This meant that his understudy, Maxwell Ames, was drafted into the breach, and to his credit be it said that no hasty study under pressure could have been productive of a more earnest effort or greater sensibility than young Ames put forth. With but few days' preparation, he projected himself into the role of an elderly judge with astonishing aptitude. Almon Cooper, Jr., alternated between the production end and pinch hitting for Ronald LaChance whose illness left a second gap in the lineup to be filled almost extemporaneously.

Plot material, which in modern light might suffer the accusation of being far-fetched, revolved about the reactions of three confirmed bachelor comrades when suddenly confronted with the responsibility of jointly caring for a young girl protegee. The bulk of the conversational load rested with ease in Ralph Chesley, one of the "Three Musketeers" who managed relaxation, smooth motion and violent explosiveness—each and all created he them, with consummate effect. Lloyd Daniels as Angle 2 in the masculine trio, was the realistic doctor and gave a competent performance.

Topheavy in male leads, the choice of them, however, was irrefragable, meaning that George Sleeper garners a boutonniere, Zeal and a dash of the much needed youthful element for animation was the Sleeper stock in trade, put to excellent account. And then enter milder, Ruth Barter of Tenant's Harbor, whose training at Leland Powers School places her in the professional lists and doubtless capable of a heavier allotment than the ingenu type which was subordinated in this play to the masculine honors. Miss Barter is an adornment to any stage but apparently the author of the script begrudged the necessity of any woman in the cast and pared action to the bare essentials. The only other feminine role was taken by Grace Rollins whose character prowess has oft been tested in amateur presentations and has yet to be found wanting.

Indispensable, if minor, engagements were safely and adequately handled by James Hayes, Roy Joyce, Lucien Dean, James Harding, James Jordan and Gerald Beverag.

Struggle with a persistent Jinx should be put to educational advantage, in which event Community Theatre Guild will emerge from the testing fire purged of errors such as careless settings, forgotten lines, slow action. A sense of the dramatic and theatrical surface knowledge is not enough; there yet remains for Guild members the arduous task of memorizing not approximately but accurately, tedious mechanics of inserting life in every action, meaning in every tone, and the drudgery foundation without which glory cannot exist. Thence to a third attempt—the lucky third!

HOLLYWOOD STAR-LITES

By Ronald Coleman

Hollywood—(Exclusive)—Jackie Coogan, one-time boy idol of the screen, is fighting for a share of the immense fortune of $4,000,000 which he earned in his youth. His mother, Mrs. Coogan claims all he earned belongs to her and that he isn't entitled to a penny of any money made before 21.

The importance of the trial rests on what bearing will the decision have upon other children who are earning huge sums on the screen. When Jackie was making money his father told interviewers that Jackie's millions were being safely invested for the boy star.

Now comes the shocking reality. Jackie has to fight his own mother and step father for his money. And it's really hurting him. He loves his mother very much.

Money has caused many heart-aches in the professional entertainment field. Mary Miles Minter for years had court battles with her mother for her money. Last year little Freddie Bartholomew spent a fortune so that he might remain with his Aunt Cissie, who raised him from a baby.

Today when new contracts are signed with juvenile stars the courts make them invest so much of their salary each week in trust funds which they receive when they become of age. These include Freddie Bartholomew, Jane Withers, Jackie Cooper, Shirley Temple, Bobby Breen, Deanna Durbin, and many others.

It's common gossip that the Janet Gaynor-Tyrone Power romance is off.

"Test Pilot" is breaking all attendance records throughout the country.

Columbia studios are staging a nation-wide quest for a new Jean Harlow to portray the leading role in "Blonde" based upon the nationally famous cartoon feature by Chic Young. The girl must have good personality. She must be a vibrant blonde beauty who is the very epitome of her type.

Tyrone Power will be starred in "Gunda Din" aided by Jack Oakie. Shirley Temple's next will be "Lucky Penny."

"Doctor Rhythm" starring Bing Crosby with Mary Carlisle compares with any of the previous Crosby pictures in that it provides good entertainment and some hit popular songs. Beatrice Lillie walks away with comedy honors in her return to the screen. The songs which will be hits are "My Heart is Taking Lessons" and "On the Sentimental Side." A 2½ Star-Lite film.

Sonja Henie was born in Oslo, capital of Norway, April 8, 1913. Accomplishments: Has won the World Figure-skating championship ten times, the Olympic Championship three times. Did not learn to ice skate until 8 years of age. Won first championship when 11 years old. Toured United States in 1936 and was found by Darryl Zanuck at a Hollywood ice carnival who immediately signed her and starred her in "One in a Million." She is but 5 feet 2 inches tall, weighs only 110 pounds, has brown eyes, blonde hair, and is "pert."

"THAR SHE BLOWS"

A Robust Tale of Whaling Days In the Far North Told With Vigor and Conviction

Being experiences of many voyages chasing whales in the Arctic, by Captain John A. Cook, master mariner, and Samson S. Pederson. The publishers are Chapman and Grimes, Mount Vernon Press, Boston.

What thrilling experiences fill the minds of those who go down to the sea in ships at sight of the title of this book, "Thar She Blows," and to all who love adventure. This story has an exciting appeal which holds the reader to the very end. Such courage and mastery as shown by Captain Cook who spent most of his days on the sea, and whaling was the chief business of this extraordinary life.

Bowheading dominates the volume and is carried on mostly in the waters of the Arctic, giving to the world the story that has remained a sealed book, notwithstanding our country's ships whaled there for a period of 80 years. Bowheading at one time was of the greater magnitude, but now all over and finished because of the scarcity of these once very numerous mammals.

This business of whaling through blizzards and the fiercest of winter storms, overcoming all sorts of weather conditions, fogs, ice bergs and fields of ice that failed to daunt the high courage of these picked and hardy mariners, is told in the author's impressive and fascinating manner—quiet, forceful and convincing.

Pierce storms and deadly cold were matters of almost daily occurrence, heroic journeys for food stuffs in the form of fresh meats, is told in hair-raising clearness. One of Captain Cook's ships, The Navarch, was built in Bath in 1822.

Captain Cook's story of his contacts with the different tribes of Eskimos is humane and appealing. To quote from his book: "No more hospitable people exist. God bless 'em!" They were much depended upon by him for furs and foods, and clothing made by them from furs was life saving in those long, cold months of northern life. Insurrection, desertion and mutiny had to be conquered as well as surgical care given for those who needed it. In all this, Captain Cook proves his great prowess.

Mrs. Cook, the captain's wife, was the first white woman to visit that part of the North. She made it home wherever the ship, dropped anchor, and her dress, toilet articles and mode of life greatly intrigued the Eskimo women. Soon Mrs. Cook became their friend and teacher.

All through this convincing tale runs the heroic courage and dauntless determination that was born of the sea life of earlier days. The historic value of such a book is beyond imagination—a record of past adventures that inspires hearty admiration.

THE SAUNTERER

A. B. Crocker

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

As I picture the poet, Longfellow, it is sitting at his desk in his home in Cambridge and not on "the deep blue sea," but he was quite a sailor. Born in Portland, then a part of Massachusetts, Feb. 27, 1807, he graduated from Bowdoin College in 1825, and May 15, 1826 sailed from New York city on ship Cadmus for Havre, France.

In a letter to his mother from that place, he wrote: "We arrived yesterday. Our passage was 30 days. It was a remarkably fine one. We had not one heavy gale and the sea was so smooth that the voyage might safely have been made in a yawl boat."

He returned to the United States Aug. 11, 1829 by sailing ship. In April 1835 he again went to Europe and returned in the fall of 1836 to Cambridge, Mass. In a letter to his father written from that point June 10, 1840, his words were: "The arrival of the steamer Unicorn has set Boston in motion for a couple of days. (This steamer was the first of the Cunard Line; it was some years before they began running to New York) I was obliged to make a short speech at the dinner when called upon by the mayor for a toast. I alluded to Mr. Friedrichsthal, an attaché of the Austrian embassy who was present, and gave as my toast: 'The steamships, the pillars of fire by night and of cloud by day, which guide the wanderer through the wilderness of the sea.'"

"The connection between Mr. F. and this toast is that the toast is a translation of a stanza from a German poet of Vienna, the city from which he comes. This of course called him up."

In April 1842 the poet again sailed from New York for Europe and on the day before he sailed, a poem appeared in the Boston Advertiser for the occasion, from the pen of his friend, George S. Hillard.

He returned on the S. S. Great Western from Bristol, England, Oct. 22, 1842 after a stormy passage to New York. S. S. Unicorn, 700 tons, was the first trans-Atlantic steamship to arrive in Boston. She was a Cunarder and sailed from Liverpool May 16, 1840 and reached Boston June 4.

WILLIAM A. LUCE

William A. Luce, son of the late Capt. and Mrs. W. H. Luce, died May 4, at his Newton, Mass. home.

A native of Rockland. During the later days of Rockport's prosperity in the shipbuilding and lime burning industry Mr. Luce began, in early life, his business career in that town.

Samuel Dexter Carleton, senior member of Carleton-Norwood & Company, was his grandfather, and his home became Mr. Luce's summer residence. The death of Mr. Luce occurred on the same date as that of Mr. Carleton, May 4, 1892.

He was twice married. Alice Philbrick of Newton was the first wife. Mr. Luce is survived by his widow, Olive Chandler, and three children, also a sister, Miss Harriet C. Luce of Boston.

Funeral services were held May 6 at his late residence, 52 Newtonville avenue, Newton. Burial was at Mount Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge, Mass.

WORLD WAR DEAD

We Can Honor Them and Help the Living By Buying A Poppy

Poppies will bloom in Rockland Saturday, May 14 glowing on the coats of remembering Americans in honor of the World War dead. The women of Winslow-Holbrook Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will offer the poppies on the streets, giving everyone an opportunity to pay tribute to the war dead and to help the war's living victims with contributions given for the little red flowers.

The vast program of welfare and rehabilitation work carried out by The American Legion and Auxiliary draws its principal support from the poppy. The dimes, quarters and half dollars we drop into the coin boxes of the poppy workers supply the means for local, state and national activities for the benefits of disabled veterans and the families left in need through the death or disability of veterans. The Poppy Day contributions make aid

CARBONATED WATER

And the Delightful Beverages To Which It Has Given Rise

Probably you have never heard of Townsend Speakman, a Philadelphia druggist back in the Revolutionary War days who supplied much of the medicine to Washington's Army. A renowned colonial physician, recognizing the medical value of water charged with carbon dioxide, induced Speakman to prepare a quantity of carbonated water and have it available to fill prescriptions, given to the patients of the doctor. One patient after another passed the word around and before long Druggist Speakman was being rushed for the new medicine water.

Now Speakman was a business man, not a doctor, and he soon conceived the idea of adding fruit juices to the water to give it a palatable taste. This he did in 1807—its popularity spread like wildfire and carbonated beverages were on their way to fame as the most delightful thirst quencher of our modern world. His single hand operated apparatus has germinated into thousands of automatic machines which today produce a billion half-pints monthly, and which are sold in more places than are postage stamps.

Today the chief source of gas is coke and mineral springs. The machinery used in the preparation of the finished product has changed as time passed to provide better filling of the bottles. The invention of the little crown which now cannot vary more than 3000ths of an inch, was one of the revolutionary steps of the industry. Research and experience have brought about many changes in the industry even during the last two years. Methods of preparation of natural fruit juices and experiment with different types of blending have made possible more and better true fruit beverages in recent years. The advent of modern washing and sterilizing machines assures the bottler of today that no diseases can be communicated by way of his bottles, and careful cleaning of syrup lines, etc., eliminate the possibility of germs from these sources. Even more than other food manufacturers, the modern bottlers uses extreme care in the preparation of his products, since spoilage will take place rapidly in poorly carbonated, unclean beverages.

At the Havener Bottling Works, one can see the contrast between the old and the new as they have there one of the old foot power filling machines, and can explain how bottles were once washed, and filled. A few old style bottles offer interesting contrast the present day crown bottle. Here too one can see the cases that once were used exclusively, and are now used only for storage and shipping to the islands. A complete line of flavors, many of which are true fruit flavors, the rest being fortified slightly, offers contrast to a few highly imitation flavors once bottled.

for a motor car—
LOOK AT LaSALLE!

MOST PEOPLE WILL AGREE that the motorist who pays the price of a LaSalle ought to get a LaSalle. Yet, many do not. They make an expenditure which entitles them to Cadillac quality, Cadillac safety and prestige—but fail to secure them. This is undoubtedly due to a misunderstanding as to LaSalle's cost.

Because LaSalle's reputation is so fine, they think the price must be high. However, this is not the case. There are actually eleven motor car manufacturers who have models costing more than a new LaSalle V-8. Before you invest—investigate. If you expect to spend about $1,000 for your next car—then look at LaSalle.
